

January 2024
52 YEARS STRONG
 FRIENDS OF LAKES AND STREAMS

As our outgoing president, Steve Schroeder wrote last year, “What we do or don’t do today determines what our future will be.” The waters of Steuben County are an integral part of our life today, but they are also an integral part of our children’s and our grandchildren’s lives today and tomorrow.

Water is one of our most important natural resources. In fact, it may be our most important natural resource. Think of what our world would be like if we didn’t have an abundant supply of clean water. In order to have that, we need to know how to keep our water supply clean and safe. That’s one of the SCLC’s goals. We not only have to diligently work to keep our lakes and waterways clean, but we also must determine where our problems are, so we can fix them. That’s where our water quality program comes in. Through this program we find out where our problems are and how they can be fixed and then work with other partners to fix them.

You can help too. Please keep your grass clippings, weeds, refuse, and anything else that affects our waters out of our lakes and waterways. Be a difference maker. Educate the children in your family, your guests, and your neighbors about water quality. Help us by joining our council, donating to our water quality program and being a good steward of our environment. It takes all of us working together to make a difference.
