FRIENDS OF LAKES AND STREAMS:

What Tomorrow Means

What we do today, or don't do determines what our future will be. The Steuben County Lakes Council was formed Fifty-one years ago, on that basic principle. We are entering the 15th year of our water testing program. Why are we compiling all this information? Because it tells us the history of our lakes. These tests tell us if our waterways are clean or polluted. As time passes our records give us a picture for today and help us figure out what our problems are for tomorrow.

For years the council has been partnering with concerned organizations to help cover the cost of these water tests. As time passes the costs have increased. We are blessed to have a membership that understands the value of this knowledge and contributes with funding to our Water Quality program. In a recent Water Quality meeting the decision was made to further enhance our testing sites. This means to drop sites that are consistently clean and do more testing on the sites that have problems. These extra tests will give us a better picture of the problem and help identify the source.

We hope you understand the importance of this work and information and will continue to help fund our Water Quality program.

To make things easier, our Council has decided to offer PayPal through our website for your convenience. Feel free to check out our website as all 15 years of water testing results are published.
